Brora 20 Years 1975/1995

A bottle from the hall of fame of Scotch whisky: Brora distilled in 1975, bottled in 1995 as part of United Distillers' legendary Rare Malts Selection. 20 years of maturation at a hefty 54.9 % ABV, natural cask strength. Brora went silent in 1983 for four decades – every remaining bottle is a piece of whisky history, priced accordingly.

TASTING NOTES

NOSE

Pineapple and bright tropical fruit, dragon fruit, with a clear mineral-maritime note and a hint of smoke. Citrus, mango and peach drape over the top, carried by honey and – yes, glorious – a pronounced waxiness that instantly recalls the old Highland classics.

PALATE

Juicy and lemony on the entry, followed by a touch of iodine and maritime freshness. Papaya, mango and peach bring sweetness, a slightly waxy texture coats the mouth. The journey runs from sweet through gently sour into iodine territory – seriously epic. A fresh mint kick flashes in the background.

FINISH

Spicy with plenty of oak, turning sweet-salty – like salted peanuts with a sugar crust. A long lingering finish that keeps the breath warm.

THOUGHTS

MARCEL

This one was properly wild. Feels like a journey from Clynesh to Talisker in a single glass. Pure joy – this whisky is straight-up fun.

SASCHA

Beautifully balanced between salty and sweet, mild and rounded at the same time, but also spicy and challenging. I like that.
