TASTING NOTES

NOSE

Upon the first nosing, an enticing bouquet of caramel and ripe stone fruits unfolds. A subtle, slightly musty undertone, accompanied by notes of cherry pits and an earthy hint, adds depth to the whisky.

PALATE

On the palate, a red-fruity sweetness emerges, highlighting the stone fruit aromas once again. Nuances of leather and a prominent tobacco note lend character to the whisky. Molasses provides a pleasant sweetness, while a dry, slightly astringent texture and well-integrated oak notes round off the flavor profile. The oily consistency adds to the complexity.

FINISH

The finish is long-lasting, characterized by spicy oak presence. A distinct sherry influence remains noticeable, ensuring a harmonious finale.

THOUGHTS

MARCEL

This HeiligenBergFeld 2018/2022 Oloroso Sherry Cask seduces with its intense fruity sweetness and spicy tobacco notes that leave you wanting more – though at times it still lacks a touch of velvety smoothness to fully crown the drinking pleasure.

SASCHA

With a clearly defined cask strength and a precise balance between fruity sherry aromas and earthy leather notes, this single malt shows a solid structure, although a rounder texture could make the flavor profile even more harmonious.
