Puni Sole 4 Years (2017)

Whisky from Italy? What sounded exotic a few years ago has become a reality thanks to the Puni distillery. The Puni Sole 4 years (release 2017) is a young but exciting whisky that develops a complex interplay of flavours thanks to its maturation in bourbon and sherry casks. At 46% vol., it has a pleasant strength without being overpowering.

TASTING NOTES

NOSE

At the first nosing, classic bourbon barrel notes fill the nose: vanilla, honey and a malty sweetness characterise the first impression. This is joined by a fresh, floral note that is almost reminiscent of lemonade. But that's not all - the flavours of the sherry cask resonate subtly in the background: a hint of marzipan, pecan and a hint of milk chocolate provide an exciting depth.

PALATE

An impressively high flavour density meets an oily texture. Notes of green apple and fresh apple juice provide a lively fruitiness, while gooseberry and honey create a sweet yet slightly acidic balance. White pepper adds a gentle spiciness, while a hint of sugar syrup appears underneath.

FINISH

The finish is somewhat lighter compared to the rest of the profile, but still pleasantly long. The sweetness remains, accompanied by a fine oak flavour. Not a powerful finish, but an elegant, gentle finish.

MARCEL

The Puni Sole 4 Years surprises with lively fruitiness and a pleasant sweetness that simply makes you want to take the next sip. For a young whisky, it is remarkably rounded and shows that Italian whisky can be more than just exotic – pure drinking pleasure!

SASCHA

A well-structured whisky with a balanced interplay between bourbon-typical vanilla and subtle sherry notes, which, despite its young age of 4 years, offers a remarkable flavor density. The elegant finish and the harmonious integration of 46% ABV make it a solid representative of modern Italian whisky craftsmanship.
