Tullibardine 228

The Tullibardine 228 is based on the Tullibardine Sovereign and undergoes a 12-month finish in Château de Chassagne Montrachet Red Burgundy barrels (228 litre capacity). The estate, owned by the Picard family, is located in the heart of the UNESCO World Heritage vineyards and is renowned for its excellent wines.

TASTING NOTES

NOSE

The single malt opens with raspberries, dark fruits and a little chocolate. This is joined by a little honey, vanilla and cherry. With a little imagination, hazelnuts can also be sensed.

PALATE

Orange zest and chocolate, like a good dark chocolate with pieces of orange. The malt from the Highlands also offers hazelnut and raspberries - just like on the nose - and is pleasantly dry, like a good red wine.

FINISH

The finish of the Highlander is medium-long, oaky-spicy and sweetish-winey.

THOUGHTS

MARCEL

The Tullibardine 228 brings a sweetly fruity playfulness to the glass with its Burgundy finish that simply lifts the spirits. Raspberries, chocolate, and a hint of nuts create drinking pleasure, even though it could show a bit more character for the price.

SASCHA

The 12-month finish in 228-liter Burgundy casks gives the Tullibardine 228 a balanced interplay between fruitiness and oak notes, but it remains somewhat superficial in its structural build. For the asking price, the complexity still has room for improvement.
